Old-Fashioned, Home-Made Soups Now Winning More Attention

Good old-fashioned soup into which everything goes except the kitchen sink is coming back into its own, according to home service authorities. As a means of stretching rationed foods and providing a simple dish that is high in protein and essential vitamins and minerals it ranks tops, they say.

The value of homemade soups from a nutritional standpoint is being stressed by the Southern California Gas Co. in one of a current series of advertisements designed to assist housewives in their cooking problems under rationing.

Soup may be an appetizer or a meal in itself. Clear, highly seasoned soups are used to stimulate the appetite. Soup which is the backbone of a meal must be rich in protein. Protein foods, such as milk, cheese, meat, fish, peas and beans, help to build and repair muscles and tissues, and are necessary daily. The liquid serves as a base for vegetables, cereals and protein foods. The vegetables supply vitamins and minerals if they are fresh and cooked in the soup only until tender. The cereal may be added as a thickening agent and to make soup more satisfying.

Meat Bones Valuable
Many housewives fail to realize that the flavor of meat stock comes from the bone and marrow, and that it is not necessary to leave large portions of meat hanging to the bone in order to make a satisfactory soup stock. With the present scarcity of meat it is advisable to get the most that you can from every piece of meat that you can buy. Since you buy meats with the bone, it is good house-keeping practice to utilize that bone, and there is no better way than in making soup.

Clear soup stock is mainly valuable for flavor. The nutritive value of soups made from a meat stock base comes from the vegetables and other ingredients that are added to it.

Soup is a medium for using left-overs, but these left-overs should not be overcooked in the broth so that they are not palatable and lose their identity.

Watch Soup Stocks
Attractiveness of service is doubly important. The color should be vivid, the pieces should be of good size and cut in varied shapes. Soups can be topped with grated cheese, chopped parsley or celery leaves or croutons for eye appeal.

Seasonings are a matter of personal taste, but soups as a rule should be well seasoned. One way to be sure that you do not overseason is to tie the spices in a cheesecloth bag and immerse them in the broth. Remove the spices after one hour of simmering.

Unless the soup is to be used immediately, it should be cooled slightly and then refrigerated. Soup stocks don't keep for an indefinite period of time, and should be heated to boiling temperature every two days.

U.S. Steel Report Discloses Great Production Story

United States Steel Corp.'s annual report for 1942, reporting the attainment of a steel output tonnage production 28 per cent greater than in the peak year of World War I, was released today as "a production story—and a financial story—of a great war effort."

Production by U. S. Steel in 1942 of more than 30,000,000 net tons of ingots as well as the manufacture of a steady flow of products entering into thousands of items used in prosecuting the war were described by Irving S. Olds, chairman of the board of directors, in his review of the year contained in the corporation's 41st annual report.

The victory parade of steel ingots was listed as only one of several principal contributions of U. S. Steel to the war effort. These contributions were enumerated as follows: "First, a record volume of steel and other materials needed not only for the fabrication of essential war products but also for the creation of new facilities to make such war products has been produced. Second, the technical ability representing many decades of accumulated research and experience has been made available for the requirements of the government. Third, the construction and operation of vast new facilities for the government in connection with the war effort have been undertaken. Fourth, millions of dollars of U. S. Steel's funds have been expended for various facilities contributing to the war effort." 70,000 in Army Forces.

More elaborately illustrated than previous reports of the corporation, the 1942 booklet contains 18 photographs depicting intensified production activities within the mines, plants and shipyards of corporation subsidiaries. A one-page condensation of the financial record of the corporation for the year describes in simple language what disposition was made of the $1,856,951,692 received by the corporation from sales of its products and services during 1942. Employment costs of $783 million in 1942 were 25 per cent greater than for the previous year. 1942 taxes of $204 million were 21 per cent more than in the preceding year; while dividends to stockholders remained unchanged. The amount carried forward for future needs of the corporation was 78 per cent less than in 1941.

As in previous years, the annual report is being distributed to all of the corporation's 218,485 stockholders and is available to its 336,000 employees and also to the general public upon request.

"In discussing manpower, the report states that approximately 70,000 men and women have left the employ of the corporation to serve the nation in the armed forces. To replace these employees, and to meet manpower requirements, nearly 100,000 employees have participated in an intensive training program.

Net income of United States Steel Corp. and subsidiaries like the Columbia Steel Co., amounting to $72 million in 1942. Total sales and revenues, approximating two billion dollars, were higher than for any other year in U. S. Steel's history. But, increases in wages and salaries, about $23 million of which resulted directly or indirectly from National War Labor Board directives, increases in total tax provisions, and other increased costs and charges, reduced the net income for 1942 to an amount 38 per cent below that for 1941. After the deduction of dividends on the preferred and common stocks totaling $30 million, there was left from the 1942 income the sum of approximately $12 million to be carried forward for future needs, compared with $56 million in 1941, when dividends in a like total amount were declared.

High School Draftees May Have Induction Postponed, Clerk Says

Draft registrants who are regularly attending the last half of their academic year in high school and who receive induction orders may, upon written request, have their induction postponed by the local Selective Service Board, according to Mrs. Doris P. Watson, clerk.

"This, of course, depends upon whether or not everything is in order and complies with the rules and regulations of Selective Service," she said.

The next induction is scheduled for April 2 at 6:30 a. m. from the Torrance Civic Auditorium. This call is for armed forces and more than 50 are to be inducted, Mrs. Watson said.

CROOK IN CUSTODY—Peter Lorre, cast as a dealer in the Black Market for exit visas, struggles with Moroccan police as Humphrey Bogart stands by. Scene is from "Casablanca" which opens Sunday at the Grand theatre for a three-day showing.

Entertainment pulsating with drama and rich in human values is the keynote of the new Warner Bros. picture, "Casablanca," which opens Sunday at the Grand theatre.

The film, taking its title from the Moroccan city that figured so largely in the recent war news, has to do with refugees from war-torn Europe and their attempts to secure exit visas to the Americas.

Starred in the film are Humphrey Bogart, Ingrid Bergman and Paul Henreid, who scored as Bette Davis' leading man in "Now, Voyager." A highly talented featured cast is headed by Claude Rains, Conrad Veidt, Sydney Greenstreet and Peter Lorre.

Although the story deals generally with the illicit trade in exit visas, the love story of Humphrey Bogart and Ingrid Bergman figures prominently and is responsible for much of the swift pace of the picture.

Auxil. Firemen Needed In Nearby L.A. Territory

An auxiliary pump, owned by O.C.D. is available for use of Shoestring residents for instruction under direction of Capt. Russell Beagle of the Los Angeles fire department. Capt. Beagle instructs auxiliary firemen each Sunday morning at 9 o'clock.

Funds are needed to erect suitable housing quarters for the unit and men are needed as volunteers for this work. Temporarily, Ralph Dominguez has offered the use of space for the pump.

Lacking funds and interest in the project, the O.C.D. will withdraw the unit from this territory, Capt. Beagle warns. Purpose of the unit is for protection of this area in the event of an air raid or other emergency.

MEATS AND DELICATESSEN

ARE YOU POACHING ON YOUR NEIGHBOR'S SHARE OF MEAT?

Whether you are aware of it or not, if you patronize a black market you're poaching on your neighbor's share of meat. YOU can help to stamp out Black Markets. Without your help, meat is liable to go up in price and become really scarce.

The Government's program to get rid of this menace includes an order that all livestock slaughterers and dealers must have Federal licenses and license numbers must be stamped on all wholesale cuts of livestock.

Do your part to do away with Black Markets by asking to see this license number and paying only ceiling prices, which are posted at our market.
